NOTE: Continued education cannot currently be completed to renew a WI EMR license; a "traditional" refresher must be completed through an approved training center.

“Traditional” vs. “Flexible”

“Traditional” refreshers, which are typically offered by technical colleges, are designed around their schedules, their fees, and their topics of interest. “Flexible” refreshers, or continued education, however, is designed around your interests and your service’s needs. Flexibility is essential in today’s EMS system...we need training that is cost-effective, calendar-friendly, and not “one-size-fits-all.” In an economy where budgets are tight, provider retention rates are declining, and maintaining a high level of provider interest is essential, why even consider the “same old thing” every other year?

Continued Education

Conferences, symposiums, in-house training, chart reviews, online courses, college courses, teaching, skills labs, training at a local hospital, certification courses, independent training courses...THEY ALL COUNT as continued education! So, if your service already holds monthly meetings and training sessions, or if you already attend a local EMS conference every year, then why are you still completing a “traditional” refresher and spending more money? Why not save yourself some time, your service some money, and learn about topics that interest you through continued education and “flexible” training?

How @ems Can Help

Unlike technical colleges and other training centers, EMS, LLC has no geographical boundaries when it comes to continued education. We can travel to you or your providers can come to us...it all counts toward your license! We offer flexible training options on topics that interest you and the other members in your service...not just the “cookie-cutter” options that many “traditional” refreshers provide to all providers that attend. If you just want a stand-alone course here-and-there, no problem! If you want us to help you build a training program and develop a training calendar, we can do that, too!
